

THE FLYER

1954

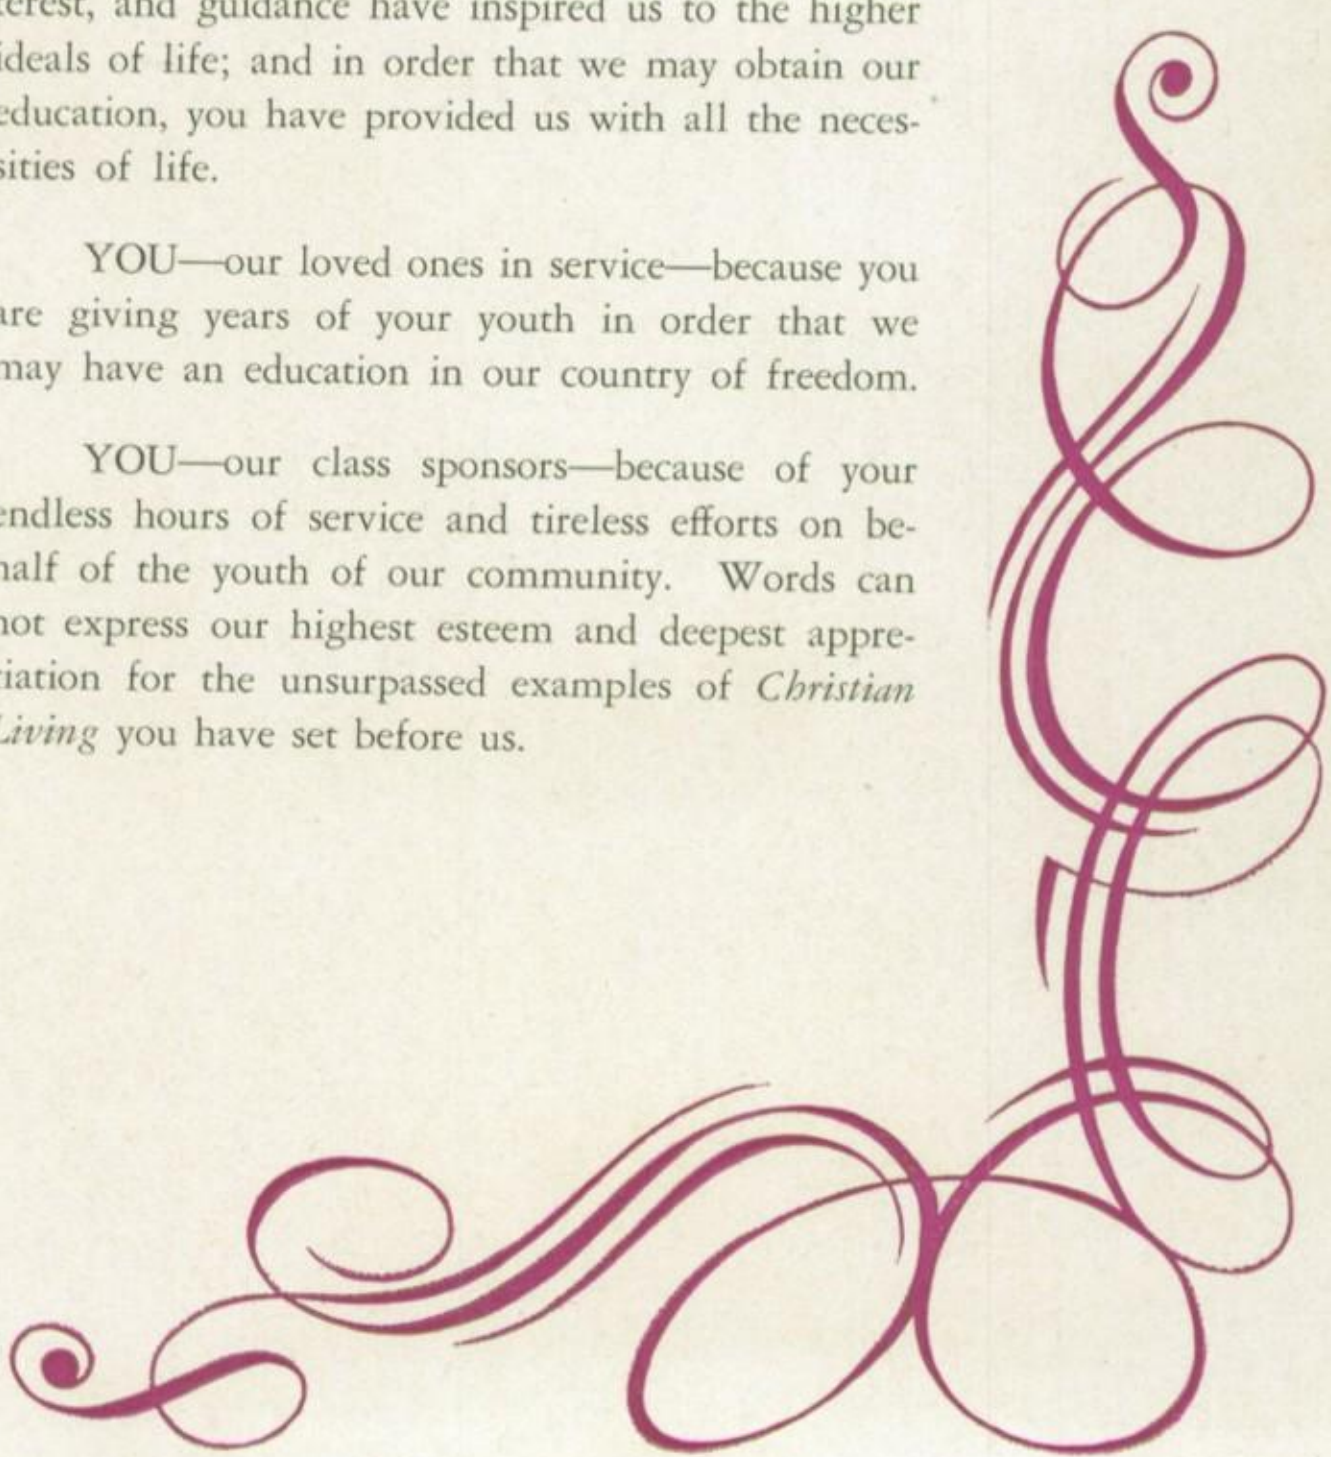

DEDICATION

WE DEDICATE THE 1953-54 EDITION of the
FLYER TO:

YOU—our parents—because your devotion, interest, and guidance have inspired us to the higher ideals of life; and in order that we may obtain our education, you have provided us with all the necessities of life.

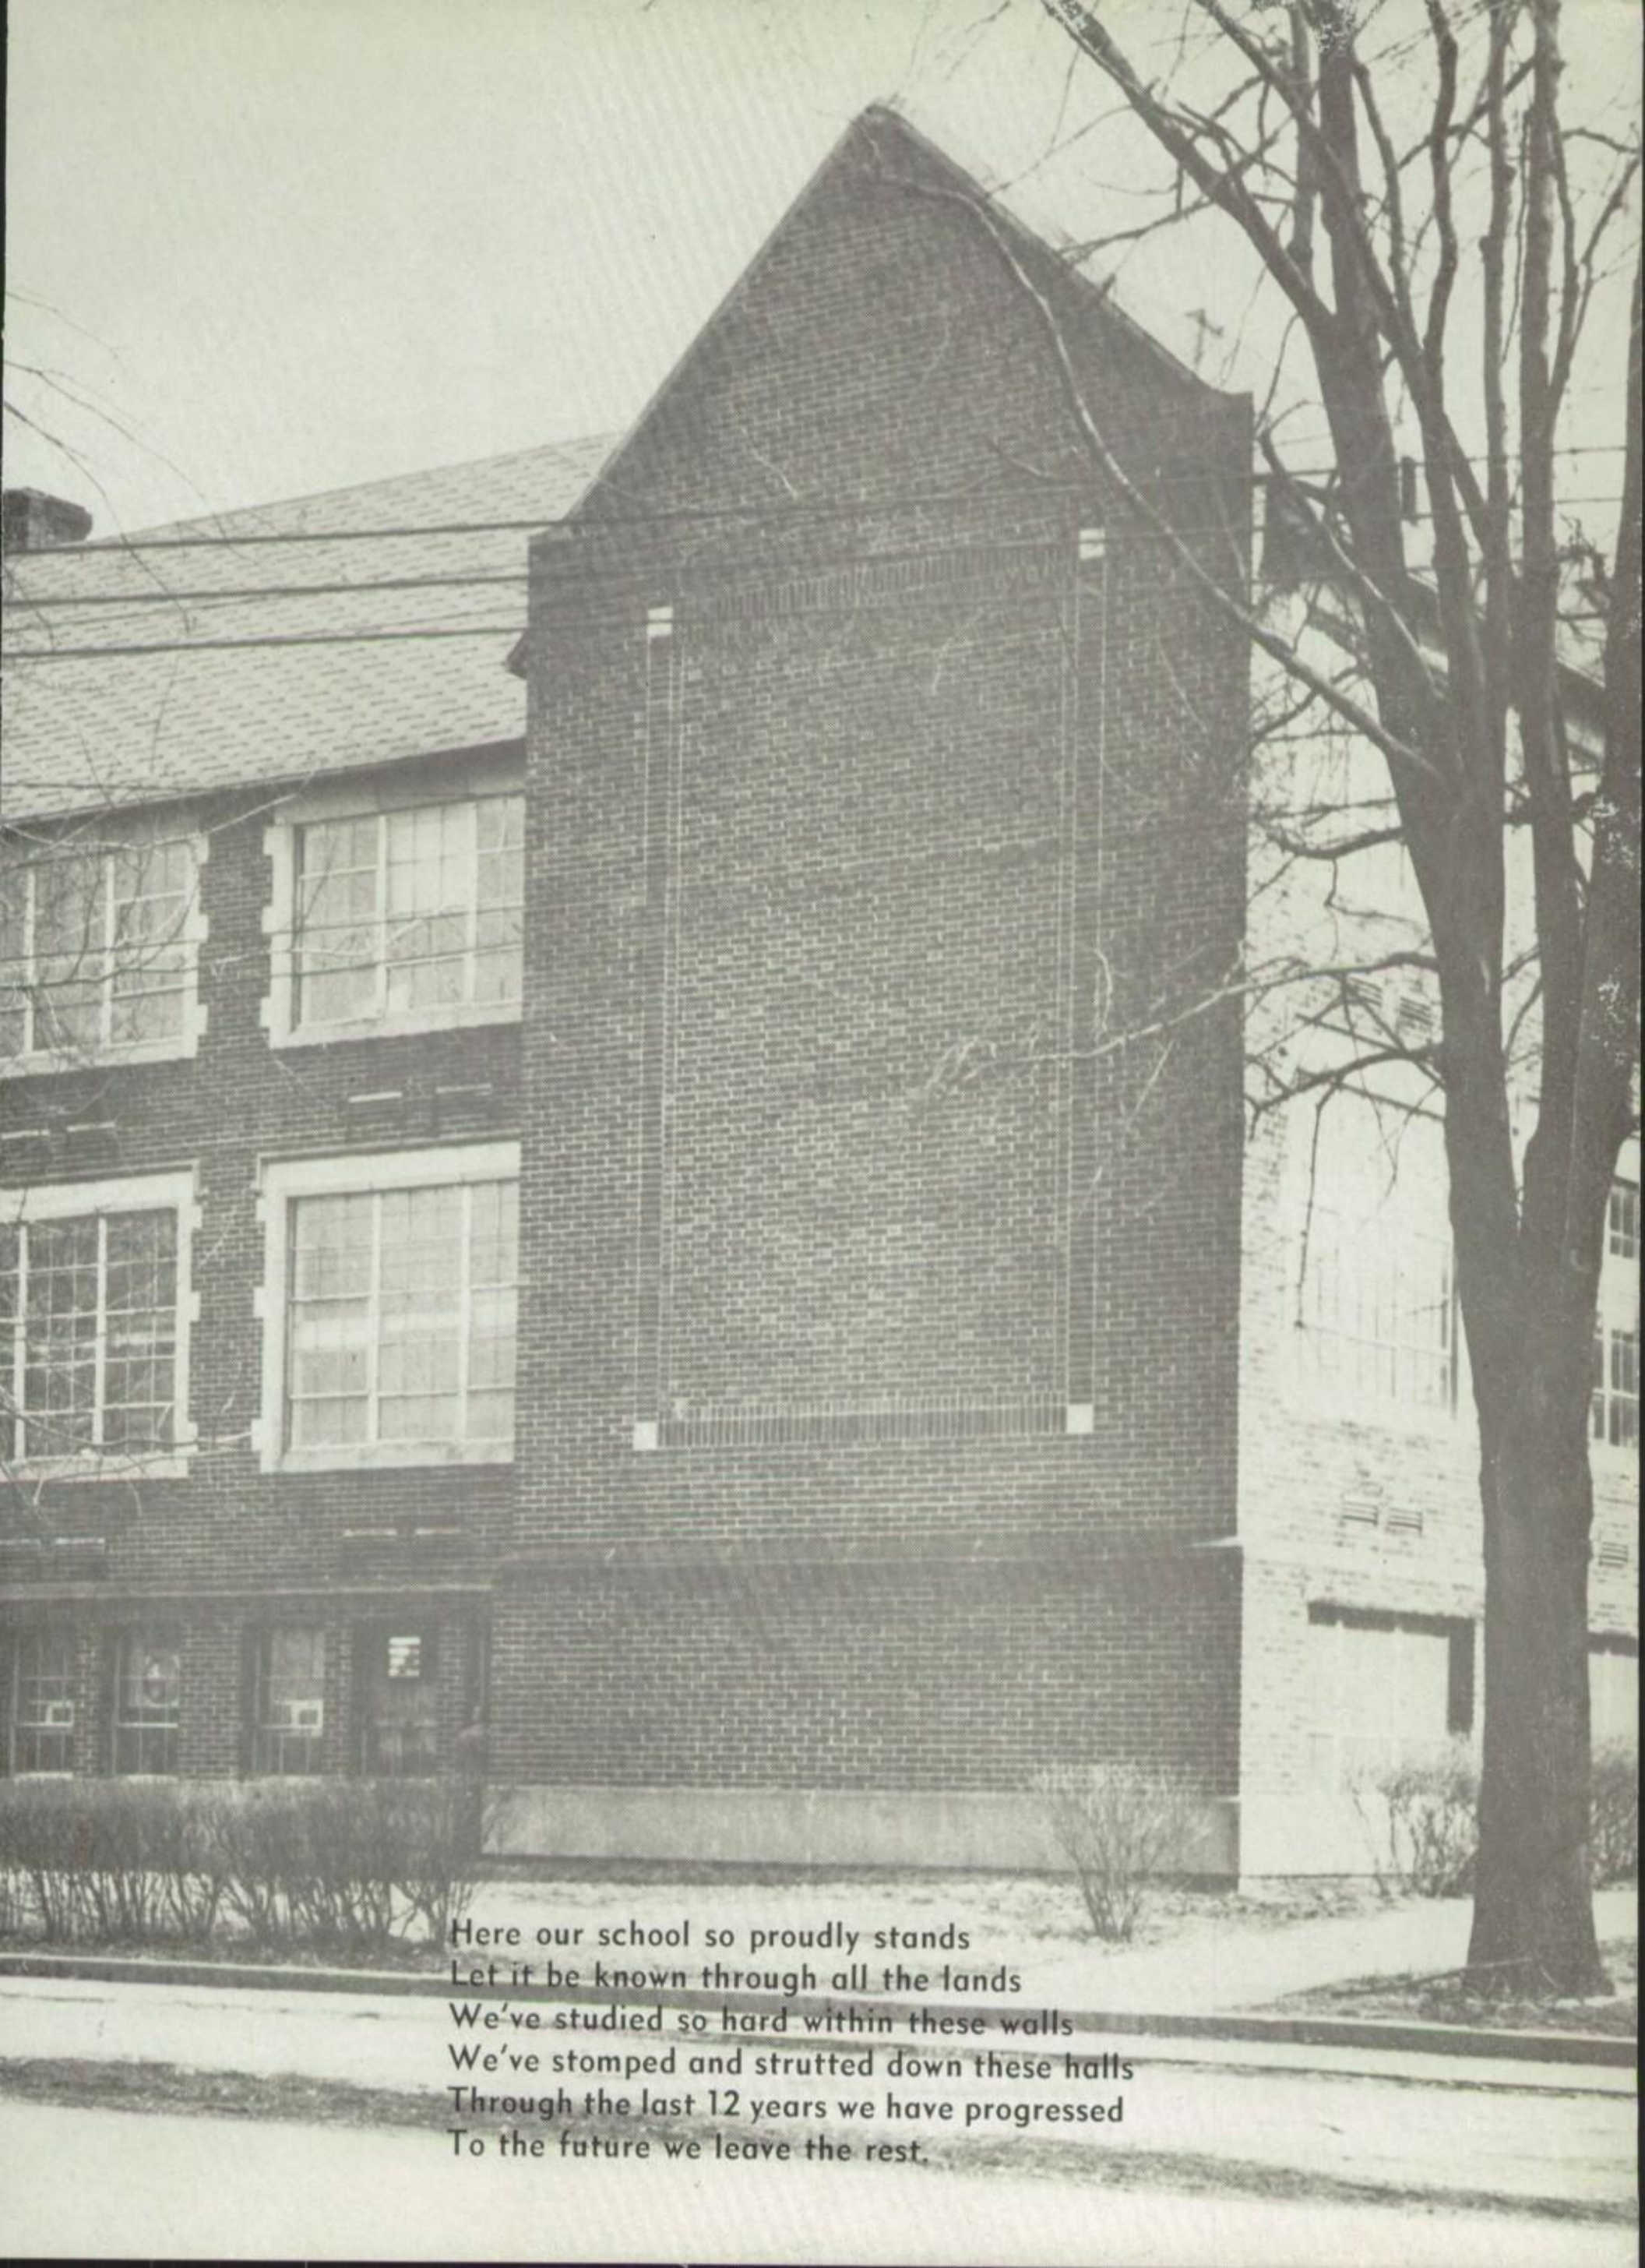

YOU—our loved ones in service—because you are giving years of your youth in order that we may have an education in our country of freedom.

YOU—our class sponsors—because of your endless hours of service and tireless efforts on behalf of the youth of our community. Words can not express our highest esteem and deepest appreciation for the unsurpassed examples of Christian Living you have set before us.

OUR SCHOOL

Here our school so proudly stands
Let it be known through all the lands
We've studied so hard within these walls
We've stomped and strutted down these halls
Through the last 12 years we have progressed
To the future we leave the rest.

SENIORS 12 YEARS AGO

CLASS HISTORY 1953-54

In September 1942, a very intelligent looking group of boys and girls entered their first day of school. Of the original class there are nine who are still with us. They are, Jack DeBusk, Madonna Deck, Donald Dye, Leota Jones Norman, Herman Keller, Dick Rhoads, Sue Servies, Arlie Thompson, and Bob Wilkinson. Bill Calder joined us at the end of the first semester while Carolyn Leonard and Jean Zachary left us.

Does anyone know what soap tastes like? If not, ask any senior who was one of Mrs. Widener's victims during our second year of school.

In the third grade Mrs. DeBusk tried to teach us to tell time. It seems as though she wasn't too successful from the hours that some of us now keep.

The new members of our class that year were Mona Baker, Inez Higgins, and Shirley Ray.

Since many of us didn't have our lessons during the fourth grade, Mrs. Cosby supervised our recesses. (We all stayed inside.)

Earl Gilland and Virginia Patton joined us during the fourth year of school.

We began to settle down to business in the fifth grade. Why? Ask Mrs. Haines or anyone she has ever taught.

Carolyn Leonard came back with us after leaving in the second grade.

You have heard that old saying, "There are seldom any gains without pains." It happened true to form six years ago when Mrs. DeBusk had the contaminated class. This was a bad time for Marilyn Hedrick and Dale Norman to join us.

When we reached the seventh grade, we began to feel important. Mr. Miligan, our home room teacher, had to have a lot of patience with a group of adventurers who kept their teacher in suspense.

EIGHTH GRADE

I can see the Seniors of 1954 as they entered the eighth grade—thirty-one in number. After the first few days, I opened my eyes to the pairing off among them and they have stuck to it all through their high school days. Of course, the pairing then, for the most part was with the same sex, but a few years have changed all of that. At first I thought this might be temporary, but it has become permanent for some.

The boys of the class were sports-minded and they made a good showing with their basketball team. Arlie, Tom, Marvin Servies, Charles Servies, Dick, Dale, Bob, and Jack played on the team that won the County Junior High Tourney.

Everyone expects a boy to play cowboy sometime in his life, but one of these eighth grade girls showed a liking for the same; so, where do you think she landed—why “Deep in the Heart of Texas.” Yes, there she could be the Lone Star Ranger. That was “Little” Adia Guire.

I made it a point to see that Mona did not forget Ora Lee Lyons.

Inez was named the “Belle of Parkersburg” and meek little Shirley—the “Brier Hopper of Balhinch” danced to the tunes of our fiddler, Herman, of course.

Then Merle and I had our daily farm conversation.

Leota had that eighth-grade giggle, and Sue’s face was always red; she blushed so much. Dale was such a quiet and shy lad that I could hardly imagine him asking for Leota’s hand. Marilyn went by “Red” as she still does.

A part of the class was tooting his or her horn in the high school band. Occasionally there was an outburst of sour notes. Who could have made them? Carolyn? Bob? Jack? Earl? Mona? But through it all Mr. Bucklew survived and even found space for them on the Band Bus to Washington D.C.

I have often wondered what Cecil Rhoads and Lloyd Thompson fed Dick and Arlie to make “men” out of those eighth grade mites.

The whole class was a most enjoyable group—fair minded, well-behaved, and respectful.

By CHARLES DEBUSK.

We became a group of very green freshies who felt very important because we helped to occupy the assembly.

We enjoyed ourselves at the fishfry that fall because we looked and acted like Indians on the warpath.

Jean Zachary came back with us after leaving us in the second grade.

In our Sophomore year we made the school shine with our green and gold sweaters. Some of the sweaters have been misplaced by now. How about that, Jack?

Jewel Meadows entered our class this year.

Our Junior year was the most exciting year because of our play, “Stranger In The Night” and the Junior and Senior Reception at the Masonic Temple, decorated as a Hawaiian scene.

Also, during this year we received our class rings.

Joann Edwards and Merle Reeves entered our class this year.

At last we made it! Now we are Seniors, one of the happiest groups of seniors ever to graduate from New Market.

The Senior Year has been very exciting. The first of the year we conducted a magazine campaign and started practicing for our Senior Play on October 16.

We also held a chicken supper on December 10.

Our Senior Trip will include New York, Toronto, Niagara Falls and Detroit.

Senior Class Will

A grand parade of seniors is about to begin
We're stepping through the same wide door
Many have seen us all from beginning to end
We're the seniors of "54".

It may seem we're each a lost chord
But we have each been looked upon by the Lord.
Our road may be rough but until our stop
We'll all fight to stay on top.

Here we begin the beginning of end
And to the juniors we're going to lend,
The things we surely think they'll need
And hope they'll appreciate just what we leave.

Bill Calder has the ability for going steady.
Which he is leaving to Bill Sanders, who is always ready.

To Jane Oney, in the Junior class,
From Marilyn Hedrick, our red-headed lass,
Goes solo chair in the clarinet section
Now, Jane, add That to your valued collection.

Shirley Ray is in the market to give away
Her dancing ability, to Martha Soliday.

Now, Jack has the ability for spying,
But he doesn't want anyone crying.
But, Larry, did you catch a coon,
While parked under that big yellow moon?

Katie Leonard's ability to get a diamond
Goes to Betty Servies, who's really climbin';
In Wilfred's date book. We know you rate,
So why don't you two set the date?

Arlie has fallen for algebra hook, line, and sinker.
So he's leaving his book to Sam, the Junior class stinker.

Shirley Miles is the one to receive
What Sue Servies wants to leave.
It's the ability to get a red face with ease,
When embarrassing situations she sees.

To Harold Reeves, whose mind is a fog
Dick would like to leave a seeing eye dog.

Jean's ability to spell, she leaves to Mary Ann Kochert,
So Mary Ann can give Mr. Wilson a lot of comfort.

From Tom Ross, who quit going steady,
To someone whom we think is ready.
The ability to get married goes to Leslie Dove,
So he can settle down with his favorite love.

To Martha Grimes, to add to her wiggle,
We wish to leave Mona Baker's giggle.

Bob Wilkinson has a box of speed tickets collected.
For Bob Young! (This ability has been specially selected.)

Our girl, Jewel, is romantic,
But it's a trait she has just recently tried.
She thought she would leave it to Nancy
But Nancy is already a bride.

Madonna Deck wills, without cost,
Her hips to adorable Mary Ann Hoss.

To Johnny Stull, the chorus bass
Earl leaves to him a great, big case.
So that Johnny can "carry" a tune
And maybe rate higher in chorus soon.

From Joan, to whom graduation can't be too soon,
To Carolyn Hampton, Joan leaves her place in the senior room.

Merle Reeves is giving away
To Jerry McCarty, for the future day,
His car, a big, black limousine.
We hope Jerry can afford the gasoline.

For Jean Wiatt, because in a height contest
We know she would lose,
Virginia is leaving a pair of her high-heeled shoes.

Herman's ability to use a wrench,
He'd like to leave to Beverly French.

Good grades which are in great demand
Are being left to one whose I.Q. will expand.
This ability is given away by Lizzie
To Don Maxwell to keep him busy.

Dale's ability for getting married
Goes to Freddy Fruits, who can't be hurried.

Leota doesn't want to be extravagant,
But there is something she'd like to lose.
What she is going to leave behind
Is a few pounds for Norma Axsom to use.

Don Dye's love for electric trains
He'd like to leave to Gordon Rains.

Inez leaves a bottle of Hadicol
To John Wilson, who has had a fall.
We hope this gives John enough cheer
That he'll be back again next year.

To Richard Douglas, everyone's pal,
Norma would like to leave a Jersey cow.

A little advice to Joann Frame
Just make your favorite guy think it's a game.
It won't be long until it is spring
And he'll be buying you an engagement ring.

We will to Mr. Wilson, whose hair line is declining,
A bright red cap with a sheep wool lining.

Now to Mrs. McCarthy, a great long pole
To use on the kids while she takes the roll.

To Mr. Cassidy, who has done his best,
From all of us, a nice, long rest.

We will to Mrs. Fortney, a bright red sedan
So she can go to Florida to get a sun tan.

To Mr. Milligan, and he'll like it, we bet,
We will him a frog to keep as a pet.

To Mrs. Hulbert and we know she'll need it;
We leave a Home Ec. book and hope she'll read it.

We leave to Mr. Young, a very loud cheer
In hopes he'll have a better team next year.

To Mrs. Hall, whose fists are in demand,
A boxing glove to wear on each hand.
To add to that: for each shoe a steel plate,
So the kids can hear her coming before it's too late.

We will Mr. Douglas, a class in which
There is never heard
From any of the boys, just one naughty word.

To Mr. DeBusk, so he can write it down,
A note book to be filled with the gossip of the town.

Our sponsors, Quigg and Bucklew,
Who have fretted over our trip,
We'd like to leave a big bowl
Of Lipton-tea for them to sip.

THE SENIOR CLASS

THE SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

In the year 1964, we the Juniors of '55 decided to take a sight-seeing tour through the fabulous inland city of Crawfordsville.

As we board our chartered bus, we find the driver is none other than Thrill-a-Minute Wilkinson.

Our brilliant guides are Lightning Dye and Gabby Ray.

Entering the suburbs, we see a flock of Doves making their way to DeBusk's Dove Farm.

As we pass the TV studio, we see Curvaceous Deck and her Chauffeur, Frenchie Thompson, pulling away from the curb in Deck's solid-gold Crosley.

Sailing down six-lane Cassidy Boulevard, our eyes rest upon mademoiselle Sue Servies's Lonely Hearts Club. We see Casanova Gilland and Don Juan Norman entering the elaborate club-house.

Speeding toward us come two rival taxis driven by Hot Rod Rhoads and Speedy Calder trying to see who can get to a customer first, the customer being the oil tycoon, Herman Keller, who struck oil in Bal Hinch.

As we breeze past the beautiful Wabash College Campus, our guides point out the president's mansion. The president is an old class mate, now Prof. Reeves, who got his start teaching history.

We see it is time to have lunch and the guides recommend Sourdough Patton's Hash House. The menu is day-old squab dipped in Yogurt.

Our program for the afternoon is a Water Show at Mudhole Lake east of Crawfordsville. We arrive in time to see the contestants of the bathing beauty contest narrowed down to Gag Mar Higgins and Roxanne Meadows. The judges are Curly Mills and Smiley Patton. In the lake, we see Merle Bucklew swimming after the shellacked toupee borrowed from Paul Wilson.

The handsome life guard is Cuddles Ross and sitting beneath his chair swooning their heads off is Dazzling Zachary, Lucious Hockersmith and Wild-Athenian Wills.

The music for the occasion is furnished by the all-girl Vagabonds led by Maestra Leonard. The theme song is the "Bucklew Blues."

For our evening entertainment, we have tickets to see the All-County Tag Match featuring the Grapplers, Two-Ton Baker and Five-by-five Hedrick, versus Muscles Jones and Gorgeous Georgiana Edwards.

Presiding as ring referee is Ethel "The Babe" Quigg.

The day in Crawfordsville has been thoroughly enjoyed by the class of '55.

VARSITY

New Market had a "hard luck" season winning only four games while dropping seventeen. Although the records don't show it, the Flyers have one of the roughest schedules of County teams. With our new coach, Joe Young, the class of '54 leaves much experience behind for a coming team in 54-55.

First Row—David Stull, Arlie Thompson, Jack DeBusk, Keith Britton, Tammy Miller.

Second Row—Sam Swank, Bob Young, Don Maxwell, Coach Young, Leslie Dove, Fred Barth, John Stull.

B TEAM

First Row—Jim Keller, Don Hultz, Jerry Stevenson, Dean Williams, Tom DeBusk and Tammy Miller.

Second Row—Manager Ronnie Seamen, Butch Jarvis, Sherman Morris, Bob Young, Coach Joe Young, Fred Fruits, Marion Maxwell, and David Stull.
